○ About the project

The contents of textbooks for initial training in the agricultural and IT sectors are confronted with the actual requirements of the labour market in these areas

Developed tasks for project-based work, the digital tools to be used for this and assessment practices in close consultation with VET teachers and labour market representatives

Project-based, reusable, motivating digital learning content collected and made accessible with an interdisciplinary approach

Mini-courses will also be organised to prepare teachers and students for successful project work.
